
The Killers

Posted by ohiostate1016 - 2007/11/13 02:19

I doubt that I'm alone in this, but I just love The Killers. I recently saw them live in Columbus (my hometown) and they were amazing. I'm not sure if people know this, but they are really underrated. I know that they get a lot of mainstream coverage, but I still think that they should be waaaaaaay up there in terms of bands.

Both of their recent albums, Hot Fuss and Sam's Town, have been amazing. And they do have a hit song, "Mr. Brightside." If you haven't heard this song, then you have been living under a rock.

Re:The Killers

Posted by Lois Lane - 2007/11/13 03:50

The Killers are awesome. I saw them in Boston and thought they were great. I hope they stick together and keep working on records. I think they'll only get better and better.

Smile Like You Mean It and Read My Mind are my favs

Re:The Killers

Posted by ohiostate1016 - 2007/11/17 01:14

Yeah, they are pretty great. I saw them this year in Columbus, and it's the best show I've ever been to. I hope to get a chance to see them again next year.

As far as new material goes, they have a new mini-disc out with their B tracks on it. It's called "Sawdust." What a great name for a disc with previously forgotten material...

Re:The Killers

Posted by ohiostate1016 - 2007/11/27 18:39

OK, you guys know that The Killers are my favorite, but here is the rest of my top 10:

1. The Killers
2. Styx
3. Foo Fighters
4. Queen
5. Journey
6. Aerosmith
7. Train/Pat Monahan
8. Fleetwood Mac
9. The Beatles
10. Alan Parsons Project

Any thoughts on the rest of my top ten?
