
U2

Posted by GreenLight 711 - 2007/11/13 03:56

They're one of those bands people either love or hate. I love em.

First of all, its awesome how they're still together since high school and they're genuinely friends. You don't see that anymore.

Also, they just have the perfect blend of music and lyrics for me. All four of the guys bring something special to the table.

Stay, Unforettalbe Fire and Pride are my favs if I'm only allowed to pick 3 songs haha They rule my i pod not gonna lie. Their last album was good, but I think they can still do much better. I hope they kick it up next time around.

=====

Re:U2

Posted by Oxford63 - 2007/11/13 23:51

Though U2 lost me somewhere along the line, I have to agree about how amazing it is that they've stayed together for as long as they have and that they are genuine friends (and remain so)

They say absolute power corrupts absolutely ... Bono definitely has made a name for himself and his is a voice that is listened to .. the world over. That kind of reknown and, frankly, sycophantic handling by everybody who comes into contact, could really change a person. The fact that the band is still together is a testament either to the fact that he hasnt' changed, the band has changed with him, or they're all a very tolerant lot!

Sorry, it's been a long day. hope that makes sense! :woohoo:

=====

Re:U2

Posted by ohiostate1016 - 2007/11/16 03:58

U2...what can you say about them? The are one of the most important acts of the past 100 years. They do so much, and it's not only about music. What Bono is doing for AIDS in Africa with (red) is really amazing.

As far as their music goes, it's like me with the University of Michigan. I respect it, but I don't like it.

=====

Re:U2

Posted by fastnoid - 2007/11/16 07:48

ohiostate1016 wrote:

As far as their music goes, it's like me with the University of Michigan. I respect it, but I don't like it.

Haha exactly!

=====